Newman on NBC Houston: Cyberattack or System Failure? Can You Trust What Companies Tell You?

November 24, 2026

RELATED PRACTICES Privacy and Cybersecurity

Haynes Boone Partner Tim Newman was featured on KPRC 2 Houston discussing how companies should communicate with the public following technology outages and potential cybersecurity incidents.

He explained why companies should investigate before attributing an outage to a cyberattack or technical failure, emphasizing the importance of providing accurate information and avoiding definitive statements before the facts are known.

Read more from KPRC 2 Houston here.

© 2026 Haynes and Boone, LLP