The healthcare industry involves a complex and ever-changing regulatory environment. Our lawyers regularly analyze and advise clients on fraud and abuse implications in existing and proposed arrangements under federal and state kickback and self-referral laws. We have extensive experience in representing providers when making self-disclosures or repayments. In addition, we advise clients regarding internal and external operations issues, structure transactions, and assess and revise providers' compliance and audit functions. Our lawyers publish on emerging trends and issues and frequently speak to national audiences at healthcare and compliance events.
