

Texas Business Courts Task Force

Practices and Industries

PRIMARY CONTACTS

Bradley W. Foster

+1 214.651.5734

David H. Harper

+1 214.651.5247

Ben L. Mesches

+1 214.651.5234

John Turner

+1 214.651.5671

Effective Sept. 1, 2024, the new Texas Business Court and Fifteenth Court of Appeals opened for business.

These new courts present significant implications for businesses and individuals. Haynes Boone has developed a Texas Business Courts Task Force comprised of a group of interdisciplinary attorneys who have studied the courts since inception and are prepared to assist clients in understanding their significance and navigating their rules. Haynes Boone has one of the state's leading business litigation practices, including a formidable trials group, paired with a deep background of experience in Texas law and procedure. The firm is well positioned to advise clients concerning these new Texas courts.

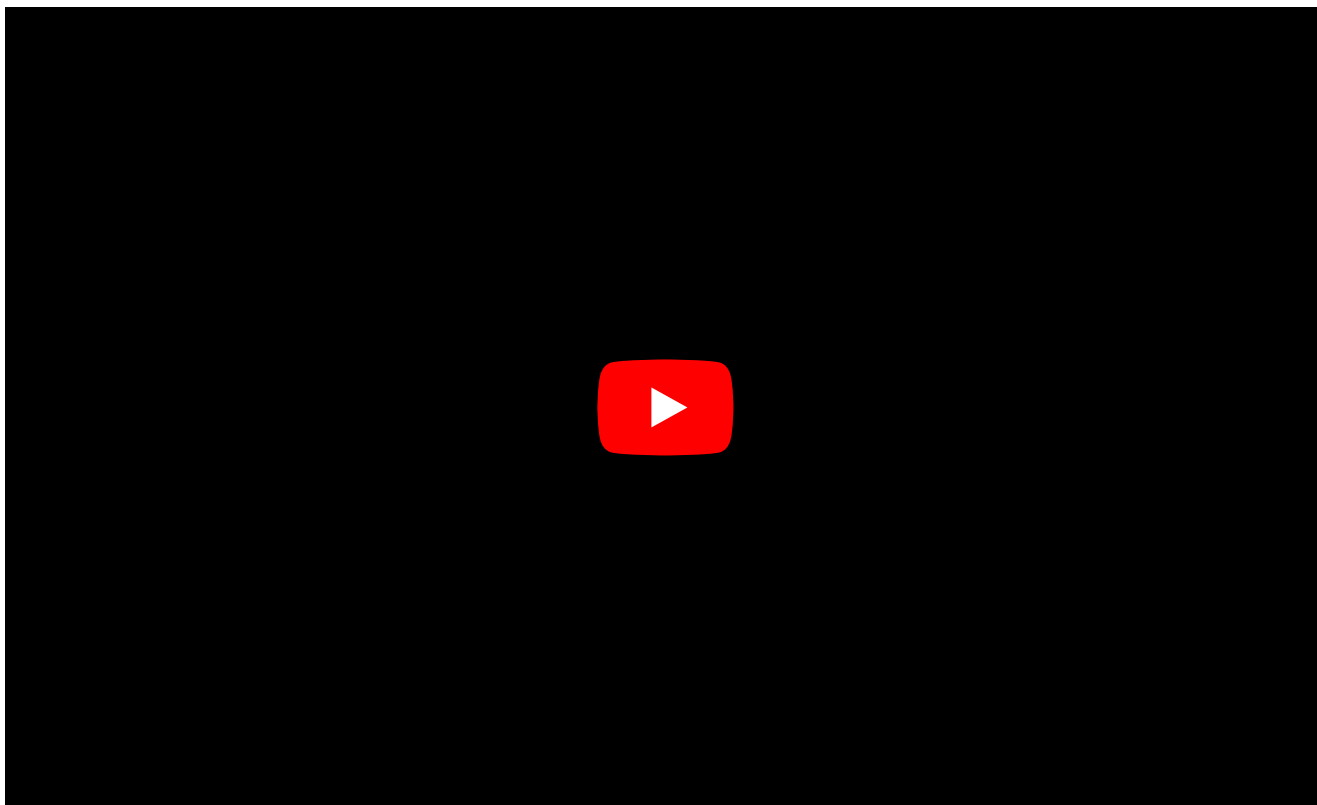

Task force members have presented, written and been quoted in the news on related issues. See below for attorney bios.

If you have questions, please contact Brad Foster, David Harper, Ben Mesches, or John Turner.

David Harper speaks to WFAA on the Y'all-itics Podcast.

Watch Video:

The Texas Business Courts Task Force recently hosted a firm-wide CLE to ensure all attorneys were briefed on the latest policy updates and court rules.

Watch Video:

Recent Press Coverage:

The Texas Lawbook

How to Get a Case Into and Out of Texas' New Courts

Law360

Texas Could Be Next Delaware, Attys Say As Biz Court Opens

Business Insurance

Texas business courts could draw companies

Houston Chronicle

Move over, Delaware: Texas Poised to Create Specialized Business Courts

The Texas Lawbook

Business Court Building Blocks Taking Shape

Texas Lawyer

The Business Courts Are Coming—Can They Meet Expectations?

Law360

Haynes Boone Task Force Tackles New Texas Business Courts