Our lawyers ensure success from behind the scenes.

The lawyers in the Media, Sports and Entertainment group at Haynes Boone handle the gamut of issues faced by companies and organizations in these industries. Our interdisciplinary team represents clients ranging from sports franchises and stadium builders, to publishers and broadcasters, to cable, cellular and Internet service providers.

We understand the high-stakes, multimillion-dollar nature of providing entertainment to the masses, whether in person or digitally.

For sports teams, including clients such as the National Football League and a National Hockey League franchise, our services include:

- Development and financing of sports facilities
- Licensing, sponsorship and marketing of team memorabilia merchandise
- Advisory and tactical support during player contract negotiations

For our media clients, which include A&E Television Networks, Star Magazine and The New York Times Company, we routinely handle matters involving:

- Trademark and copyright issues
 - Libel and defamation
 - Invasion of privacy
