When our clients have disputes with taxing authorities, they turn to our tax controversy team which has extensive experience representing businesses and individuals in both civil and criminal tax controversy matters. While we have substantial litigation experience and are determined to formulate and advocate the strongest defense strategy for our clients, where possible, we seek to resolve our clients' conflicts with the taxing authorities early enough in the process to avoid litigation. We have extensive experience representing clients in federal and state tax audits, the appeals process, refund litigation proceedings, bankruptcy proceedings, and estate and gift tax matters.
