The Haynes Boone Palo Alto group is a highly trained team of lawyers focusing on intellectual property, technology transactions, corporate and litigation services. Haynes Boone's Palo Alto office is well equipped to address client needs in California and beyond. Most of our California-based lawyers have earned engineering or technical degrees in addition to law degrees, enhancing their understanding of the intricacies of intellectual property.

Haynes Boone's California offices are backed by the full resources of the firm. Multidisciplinary teams are available to address the opportunities California offers for many of our clients in intellectual property as well as areas including in-bound Asian work, venture-funded corporate matters, and big-ticket litigation such as patent, securities, insurance coverage, and class action labor and employment matters.
