Haynes Boone has focused heavily on the energy market for many years, representing various oil and gas, oilfield services, and chemical companies across the globe. With about 125,000 residents and thousands more commuting in daily, The Woodlands continues to grow rapidly and attract an increasing number of energy companies. Haynes Boone's office in The Woodlands is strategically located to effectively and efficiently serve our clients in the energy sector.

The Woodlands office is situated in the Waterway District, with neighbors including Exxon, Southwestern Energy, Occidental Petroleum, Chevron Phillips Chemical, Huntsman Corporation, Ovintiv and other energy companies and producers. The office is surrounded by a booming area of businesses, restaurants and entertainment, with the second-largest pavilion and concert venue in the United States. The Woodlands office is also conveniently located only 30 miles north of downtown Houston and a 20-minute drive from the George Bush Intercontinental Airport.

The Woodlands lawyers are active in the community with business and nonprofit groups such as the United Way, the Association of Corporate Counsel of America, and various youth organizations.
