We are pleased to bring you our Shipping and Energy Newsletter Digest for 2023. Our annual digest provides you with a roundup of our quarterly shipping and energy newsletters from 2023. It includes articles, podcasts and videos on topics of interest in the shipping, offshore energy and renewable energy sectors, and on autonomous vessels, dispute resolution and artificial intelligence.

We are delighted to include in this year's digest details of some of the talks that we have presented during the past year and have been well received. We will be offering these and other talks on contract negotiation and interpretation, marine construction/shipping, offshore drilling, offshore wind and arbitration and litigation during the coming year to our clients and contacts. For further details, please turn to page 26.
