

Shipping and Energy Newsletter - Winter Edition 2023

December 7, 2023 Fiona Cain, Conrad Purcell, Michael Mulligan, Kayley Rousell, Tenzin Woden, Milad Amani, Andreas Dracoulis, James Brown, Martin Pugsley, Michael Byrne, William Cecil, Andreas Silcher, Simon Curtis, Glenn Kangisser, Amanda Larrington, Teena Grewal

PRACTICES Shipping Dispute Resolution, Ship Sale and Purchase, Ship Construction and Conversion, Energy Litigation, Energy, Power and Natural Resources, Offshore Oil and Gas, Offshore Oil and Gas Dispute Resolution, International, Shipping

This newsletter has articles relevant to sellers of second-hand tonnage and those interested in autonomous vessels. We also look at a recent judgment concerning defective welding on a vessel, and I am pleased to provide details of a new series of videos from Conrad Purcell answering key questions related to project finance and renewable energy.

News from the London office includes an introduction to Michael Mulligan, who has joined the Restructuring and Insolvency team here in London, and provides his practical tips for directors of UK companies facing financial difficulties. You can also read about our recent successful events for Women in Shipping and Energy and in support of the Royal Naval Association.

While this is our last newsletter for 2023, please look out for our Year in Review 2023, which will be published in January 2024, and look back on our newsletters from 2023. I will be sending out the next newsletter in March 2024, and if you have any colleagues that would be interested in receiving it, please ask them to sign up here by selecting Shipping and Energy.

Read the newsletter here.