Haynes Boone Partner Charlene Liu was quoted in a Law360 article on the California Privacy Protection Agency unveiling draft regulations to be discussed at its public meeting Friday.

"The draft regulations are a good but very careful beginning to regulating this issue," said Charlene Liu, a San Francisco-based member of the AI and deep learning group at Haynes Boone LLP. "This is still uncharted territory, so you can't blame the agency for not being more advanced yet on topics like how to address privacy issues for data used to train AI models."
