RELATED PRACTICES Capital Markets and Securities

When Nick Davis stepped into his role leading Haynes Boone's London office, he brought a quarter-century of experience shaping one of the city's leading boutique corporate practices. Not long after joining, Davis played a key role in completing a standout deal: the first dual LSE–Nasdaq listing to occur simultaneously in three decades.

In this interview with RedLaw, Davis shares what attracted him to a Texas-based firm, how he's helping steer the London office's expansion and why he believes the path to partnership may look different for the next generation of lawyers.
