

SEC Proposes Rule Requiring CEO Pay Ratio Disclosures

September 27, 2013

The SEC recently released a proposed rule that would require public companies to disclose the median annual total compensation of all their employees and the ratio of such median to the annual total compensation of their CEO. This requirement is commonly known as the "pay ratio disclosure" requirement. The proposed rule can be found here.