

Securities and Exchange Commission Issues No Action Letter on 401(k) Plan Fee Disclosure Rules

November 10, 2011

The Securities and Exchange Commission issued a no action letter providing that information provided by a plan administrator to participants and beneficiaries will be treated as a communication satisfying the requirements of Rule 482 if the information is required by and complies with the Department of Labor's fee disclosure regulation. The letter is available here.