Managing IP has awarded Haynes Boone a Tier 1 designation in the PTAB Litigation category in its 2024 IP STARS directory, highlighting the firm's exceptional acumen and performance. The publication also lists 15 of the firm's attorneys as IP STARS, recognizing their significant contributions to the field.

"We're thrilled with the individual recognition of our practitioners and are especially gratified to see the firm's Tier 1 ranking in PTAB Litigation, which is truly the group effort that embodies our client-first ethos," said Andrew Lowes, chair of Haynes Boone's Intellectual Property Department. "David McCombs and Andrew Ehmke have been leaders in inter partes reviews and post-grant proceedings for years, and Eugene Goryunov and Scott Jarratt's national recognition as PTAB practitioners is a testament to the exceptional team we've built. Our diverse PTAB Litigation Group—including Raghav Bajaj, Jonathan Bowser, Laura Vu, Jamie Raju and Angela Oliver—is committed to representing clients across various industries and technologies."

Haynes Boone's Patent Trials Practice Group is renowned for its work protecting clients' patents and challenging others' patent claims before the USPTO, including in inter partes review, covered business method review, post-grant review and other proceedings. The group has handled more than 500 matters before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board, and its diversity and depth of experience are key to its success.

In addition to the PTAB litigation recognition, Managing IP has acknowledged the firm's achievements in trademark prosecution and patent prosecution and has recognized a number of practitioners across the United States, including three new entries in this year's rankings.
