Patexia Inc. has ranked Haynes Boone among the most active and best-performing patent litigation firms in the nation.

In support of the rankings, Patexia analyzed 18,493 district court patent cases from July 1, 2017 through June 30, 2022. Patexia calculated the success rate for each of the parties or their representatives by using the final status of the case as published by PACER or by a manual review of the judgment.

“We are thrilled to be recognized by Patexia for our leading patent litigation practice,” said Haynes Partner Jason Bloom, chair of the firm’s Intellectual Property Litigation Practice. “The ranking reflects the growing strength and national scale of our patent litigation practice.”
