Haynes Boone has moved its San Francisco office to 275 Battery St., a Class A office tower in the heart of the city's Financial District that offers sweeping city and bay views.

Haynes Boone's office is on the 18th floor of the 30-story tower.

"Our new office has been designed to encourage collaboration and to allow for our continued growth in the market," said Patent Partner Brian Kwok, the Administrative Partner for the San Francisco Office. "We are excited about continuing to build a full-service practice in San Francisco."

Haynes Boone opened its San Francisco office in 2020 and has developed a robust presence in the city, fueled by the hire of experienced lawyers with deep roots in the market, including:

- Benjamin Pelletier — A partner in the firm's Precision Medicine and Digital Health Practice Group, Ben is a former biomedical engineer who focuses on advising clients in the fast-evolving areas of biology, medicine, engineering, and data science
- Philip Albert — Albert is an IP partner who handles patent prosecution across a range of technologies and industries
- Roger Kuan — Chair of the Precision Medicine and Digital Health Practice Group, Roger counsels companies uniquely positioned in the convergence of the life/medical sciences and technology industries in connection with IP, data rights and regulatory issues
- Jason Novak — A partner in the Precision Medicine and Digital Health Practice Group, Jason advises entities, both large and small, on the various legal issues that can arise with emerging technologies in the healthcare and life sciences industries.

Lawyers in the San Francisco office work closely with their colleagues in the firm's Palo Alto office. Haynes Boone's Northern California team serves technology-driven companies, investment managers, and financial services clients nationwide, providing a range of IP, corporate, labor and employment, and litigation services.

Haynes and Boone, LLP is an international corporate law firm with offices in Texas, New York, California, Charlotte, Chicago, Denver, Washington, D.C., London, Mexico City and Shanghai, providing a full spectrum of legal services in energy, technology, financial services and private equity.
