Haynes Boone Partner George Y. Gonzalez led a deal team that advised client Technical Response Planning Corp. (TRP) in connection with the acquisition of TRP by Jensen Hughes, a global leader in safety, security and risk-based engineering and consulting.

The acquisition was announced Feb. 11; financial terms were not disclosed.

TRP is a market leader and pioneer in emergency management and business continuity planning software and consulting mainly for the power, oil and gas industry, and more recently the automotive, manufacturing and transportation industries. Headquartered in Houston, TRP was founded in 1995 by Steve Bassine as an opportunity to provide innovative response planning to the oil and gas industry in which he had spent most of his career. The company serves over 50 accounts globally, including Chevron and BP, and continues to grow.

The Haynes Boone team also included 12 other lawyers spanning multiple offices (Houston, Dallas, New York City) and practice areas (Intellectual Property, Labor and Employment, Tax and Litigation.)

A partner in the Energy, Mergers and Acquisitions (M&A) and International Practice Groups in the Houston office of Haynes Boone, Gonzalez counsels U.S. and international businesses in general corporate law with an emphasis on mergers and acquisitions, joint ventures, corporate control matters, securities, privately held companies and international legal issues. He advises clients in the energy, oil and gas, midstream, upstream, downstream, power, water, food and beverage, construction, infrastructure, real estate, healthcare and technology industries.

Haynes Boone's M&A lawyers have comprehensive experience handling middle market deals, having helped clients close more than 500 transactions in the last five years, with an aggregate value exceeding $40 billion. We routinely represent private equity firms, closely-held corporations, founders, large financial institutions and Fortune 500 public companies.

Haynes Boone is an international corporate law firm with 17 offices in Texas, New York, California, Chicago, Denver, North Carolina, Washington, D.C., London, Mexico City and Shanghai, providing a full spectrum of legal services in energy, technology, financial services and private equity.
