Associates Peyton Meyer and Tanner Luttrull and Counsel Edward Lebow authored an article in Inside Quantum Technology News discussing the national security concerns that may obstruct quantum computer finance.

Read an excerpt below:

Most quantum computing companies are on the hunt for two things (1) a way to develop and/or use a fault-tolerant quantum computer that provides an industry advantage and (2) funding to enable that development. There are, however, some hurdles and pitfalls quantum computing companies should avoid in their quest for cash.
