PRACTICES Energy, Power and Natural Resources, Oil and Gas, Energy Finance

Randy Browne heads the land and title due diligence team of professional landmen for the Energy Practice Group in the Houston office of the international law firm of Haynes and Boone. He is a Certified Professional Landman and has more than 30 years of experience in the energy industry, primarily in the land transaction area of upstream and midstream assets. He also specializes in designing and executing due diligence programs for acquisition, divestiture, financing and public offering transactions for the firm's oil and gas clients.

Randy is a past president of the Houston Association of Professional Landmen and has served in various positions with the American Association of Professional Landmen, including the education committee chair and on its board of directors as a member of the executive committee. Randy has been recognized for his service to the industry by HAPL as Landman of the Year in 2008.

Randy was born in San Antonio, Texas and graduated from the University of Denver in 1976. Prior to joining Haynes and Boone in 1999, he worked in-house as a landman for various independent energy companies and has held similar positions with other oil and gas law firms.
