Colin Giuseppe Cox is an associate in the Capital Markets and Securities Practice Group in the Dallas office of Haynes and Boone and is licensed to practice in both Florida and Texas. His practice focuses on a variety of corporate law matters, including reporting obligations under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, public and private offerings of debt and equity securities, preparation of registration statements and other securities filings, and corporate governance best practices and regulations.

Colin also works as part of the International Practice Group, assisting clients on cross-border projects and advising on transactions primarily involving Latin America and Europe. He has lived and worked extensively in both regions and speaks French, Italian, Portuguese, and Spanish.

Prior to law school, Colin worked for Goldman Sachs International in London where he traded for the bank's offshore money market funds. He also worked for Goldman Sachs in Dallas as a financial analyst within the bank's real estate private equity group.

Colin received his J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law. During law school, he participated in and won the International Tax Moot Court Competition hosted by the International Bureau of Fiscal Documentation in Leuven, Belgium. He also won the Bob Barker Prize in Animal Law, Ethics and Rights Student Writing Competition for his research on shareholder proposals in animal advocacy.

Colin obtained his undergraduate degree from the University of Virginia's McIntire School of Commerce and has also studied at the Universidade Federal do Rio Grande do Sul (Brazil), Università Commerciale Luigi Bocconi (Italy), Università degli Studi di Siena (Italy), and Institut d'Etudes Politiques de Lyon (France).
