PRACTICES Litigation, Intellectual Property, Intellectual Property Litigation, Patent Litigation, International Trade Commission Section 337 Proceedings, Trials

Tiffany Cooke is a litigation partner and registered patent attorney in the Denver and Dallas offices of Haynes Boone.

Tiffany's practice focuses on representing clients in complex commercial and intellectual property litigation in state and federal court. Tiffany's litigation experience includes representing plaintiffs and defendants in contract, trade secret, bankruptcy, patent, copyright, trademark, and complex commercial litigation matters.

Tiffany has represented clients in litigations throughout the country in federal court, state court, and at the International Trade Commission. Tiffany's experience extends to all phases of litigation, including pre-suit, pre-trial, post-trial, bench trial, and jury trial. Tiffany has taken and defended depositions, argued hearings, and questioned both friendly and hostile witnesses at trial. Tiffany also has extensive experience handling cases with complex discovery and efficiently resolving discovery disputes as they arise.

Tiffany has diverse technical experience that includes working on patent infringement actions involving hydraulic fracturing, semiconductors, medical device, pharmaceuticals, smartphone technology, web-based interactive advertising, optical sensors, vehicle surveillance systems, database technology, Radio Frequency Identification, electronic printing and document technology, and blood cholesterol testing devices.

In addition to her law degree, Tiffany holds a B.S. in molecular biology with minors in chemistry and physics.
