PRACTICES Patent Office Trials, Intellectual Property, AI and Deep Learning, Medical Device and Technology, Networking, Patents, AI and Technology, Federal Circuit Practice

Adam Erickson is an associate in the Intellectual Property Practice Group in Haynes Boone's Washington, D.C. office.

Adam's practice focuses on post-grant proceedings before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and appeals before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. Adam draws on years of experience previously drafting and prosecuting patent applications as a patent agent to identify critical issues in challenging and defending patent validity for petitioners and patent owners before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board.

Adam's practice reflects a dedication to effective advocacy through compelling oral and written communication. Adam leverages his flair for persuasive writing to secure positive outcomes for clients at all levels of representation.

Adam's technical experience includes a wide array of technologies, including artificial intelligence, wireless networking systems, computer hardware and software, acoustic design and data processing, acoustic wave filters, medical devices, and oil and gas drilling.

Adam's practice also demonstrates an ongoing commitment to pro bono efforts, having successfully represented several clients in obtaining legal status through asylum from multiple countries worldwide. Adam served as lead fellow of the Brigham Young University Community Clinic overseeing ongoing initiatives to provide access to justice to underserved members of the community.
