PRACTICES Intellectual Property Litigation, International Trade Commission Section 337 Proceedings, Patent Litigation, Trials, Trademark Litigation, Intellectual Property, Litigation

Marron Frith is an associate in the Intellectual Property Practice Group in the Dallas office of Haynes Boone. Marron's practice focuses on intellectual property litigation. She has extensive experience in complex patent litigation before U.S. district courts and the International Trade Commission (ITC). She has experience in patent litigation matters involving a wide range of technologies including various software technologies, drilling related technologies, life sciences, food and beverage containers, solid state memory, financial technologies, and many more.

In addition, Marron has litigated a variety of other commercial matters, including trademark infringement, trade dress infringement, and general commercial disputes in district courts.

As a member of multiple trial teams, Marron has experience at all stages of litigation including pre-litigation analysis, claim construction, infringement and validity analysis, fact and expert discovery, trial preparation and strategy, and trial. She has drafted substantive motions, argued those substantive motions in court, and taken and defended numerous depositions, including fact and expert witnesses.

In addition to her civil litigation practice, Marron has devoted time to pro bono matters. This includes representation of woman and children in gaining protection in cases of domestic violence.
