PRACTICES Intellectual Property, Trademark Prosecution

Jereigha Robinson is an associate in the Dallas office of Haynes Boone. Her practice focuses on intellectual property and trademark law.

Jereigha worked as a summer associate with Haynes Boone and during that time she drafted trademark correspondence, conducted trademark clearance searches, and developed an internal briefing on the current trends in trademark law.

Prior to joining Haynes Boone, Jereigha received her J.D. from Howard University School of Law, where she served as a Senior Articles Editor for the Howard Law Journal. Additionally, she participated in Howard's Entertainment Externship Program, where she gained practical experience with legal issues specific to the entertainment industry focusing on trademark law, copyright law, and contract law. She also served as a teaching assistant for Contracts and, in her third year, as a Dean's Fellow, helping students develop their legal research and writing skills.
