PRACTICES Healthcare and Life Sciences, FDA Regulatory and Compliance, Food, Beverage and Restaurant, Advertising, Marketing, and Promotional Law, Procurement and Supply Chain Management, Retail, CBD and Hemp

As a former Regulatory Counsel with the FDA, Tony assists clients with a wide range of FDA and advertising matters. In addition to his previous experience counseling FDA leadership and program offices on import and operational policy while a part of FDA's Office of Regulatory Affairs, Tony began his career at the FDA as part of the Presidential Management Fellowship in the Center for Food Safety and Applied Nutrition, also completing a detail in FDA's Office of Chief Counsel.

Tony's advertising law experience covers FDA-adjacent issues in addition to traditional FDA matters. His work in this space has included assisting with advertising litigation, preparing both responses and challenges before the National Advertising Division (NAD) of the Better Business Bureau, Proposition 65 compliance reviews, and assessing marketing claims.

Tony's interest in the food industry began prior to his work at FDA: he was actively involved in his high school FFA chapter and received an honors degree in Agricultural Economics from Oklahoma State University. Prior to law school, Tony taught elementary school in Baltimore City as a member of Teach For America.
