The Haynes Boone Outsourcing Practice Group is focused on helping clients structure, negotiate, document, and close a wide variety of information technology and business process outsourcing transactions. Our lawyers understand clients' business objectives and have substantial experience in virtually every major global industry, including banking, energy, computer, health care, hospitality and restaurant, manufacturing, software, telecommunications, transportation, and utilities. In addition, we have relationships with some of the leading outsourcing consulting groups who often assist with the non-legal aspects of transactions.

Our attorneys have worked with clients in formulating and responding to proposals, conducting due diligence, determining baseline pricing, and addressing service level issues and benchmarking. We provide helpful insights on issues related to employment, Sarbanes-Oxley, intellectual property, governmental compliance, tax, and international law that commonly arise in outsourcing arrangements.
