PRACTICES Investment Management, Corporate, Joint Ventures, Real Estate, Oil and Gas

John Ambler’s practice focuses on structuring and negotiating partnership, limited liability company and shareholder agreements for real estate, hospitality, investment management, and energy businesses, among others. John also works with clients to structure and design venture capital and family office arrangements, including negotiating venture capital agreements and multi-family office contractual arrangements. John advises on all matters of corporate structuring including creating tax efficient arrangements, advising on securities law considerations and developing equity incentive plans. Additionally, he assists private equity fund clients in the establishment and structuring of portfolio company investments and has assisted clients in negotiating and documenting the purchase and sale of business aircraft, including with respect to new-build aircraft from Gulfstream and Dassault. Finally, John advises partnerships, limited liability companies, privately held corporations and individuals on a range of business planning and tax issues from initial formation and operation to disposition.
